

Contemporary History And Its Discontents Memory Politics in Morocco

Août-Septembre 2013

N° 33-34 - 35 D1

Numéro double

SONJA HEGASY
Zentrum Moderner Orient, Berlin

Hegasy looks at the interplay of state and non-state actors in the field of memory politics in Morocco and examines contemporary debates over the country's post-colonial history. To what extent do such debates reflect a restless longing for better circumstances or competing control mechanisms? In particular, how has the past been reconfigured over the last decade through print media, fierce conflicts over academic and archival territory, and new institutional initiatives born out of Morocco's 2004 Equity and Reconciliation Commission?

Accepter
le passé
Thursday, October 3

Faculty House

East Campus on Morningside Drive, north of 116th Street

7:00pm - 9:00pm

pour construire

Columbia University Seminar on Cultural Memory

Middle East Institute
Columbia University

MALIKA OUEI
AND MICHÈLE FIS

Ahmed Marzouki

100115 0010